PREPARING FOR THE PRESS.
THE FALL OF MANDALAY,
BY ZITO.

With which is combined a complete and practical Guide to Upper and Lower Burma.

THE Author accompanied the last Expedition under GENERAL SIR HARRY PRENDERGAST in November 1885 and remained in Upper Burma after the Conquest until June 1887.

The work will probably be ready for delivery on an early date, meantime Subscribers may register their names with

Messrs. DIPPIE & Co.,
CALCUTTA.

A limited space only will be reserved in the GUIDE for advertisements, for which early application is invited.

In consequence of the difficulty in getting together reliable matter for the Guide portion of the work, and the preparation of numerous illustrations, which must be executed in England, some delay necessarily will arise in delivery. But intending Subscribers should not delay in registering their names at the above address.

H. H. THE NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY.

ADVERTISING AT RAILWAY STATIONS

THE PROPRIETOR of the Bombay Gazette Press, having leased from the NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY Company the exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to the Company, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting notices or advertisements on the lines.

The Cantonment of SECUNDRABAD, as is well known, contains the largest military garrison in India—a garrison comprising over 5,000 British and native troops. Contiguous to it is the Cantonment of BOLARUM, garrisoned by two regiments and one battery of the Hydraad Contingent, all officered by Europeans. South of Secunderabad, about 4 miles are the suburbs of Hydrabad, containing the Nizam's regular troops, about 5,000 in number, officered mostly by Europeans—besides a large civil population. It would manifestly be advantageous to firms to advertise at the stations on the above railway, the most important of which are SECUNDRABAD, HYDRABAD, GANGAWARUM, and TANDUR.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES.

INSURANCE COMPANIES, SHIPPING COMPANIES, HOTELKEEPERS, MERCHANTS, TRADERS and others who wish to force their business on the notice of the public, all alike value the privilege of Railway Station Advertising.

There is no reason why the privilege should not be also specially valuable to Advertisers in Indian Looking to the great and increasing number of Native Railway Passengers on the two trunk lines on Western India, Native Merchants, Traders, &c. seeing that they have the privilege of advertising in their own language, would find the publication of their announcements at Railway Stations an infallible means of extending their business.

Advertisers can select the Station at which they wish their Placards posted, and may advertise for any period that may be agreed on. The charges have been fixed on an extremely moderate scale to encourage Advertisers to make a liberal use of the new means now offered of making announcements known to the public.

Placards, according to the taste of Advertisers, may be printed at moderate charge in ENGLISH or any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES at the Bombay Gazette Press. Estimates on application.

RATES.

Board not exceeding 2 feet long and 2 feet broad Re. 1 per month. For every additional square foot annas 2.

Thus a firm exhibiting a board, say 4 square feet will have the advantage of having their business advertisement read by thousands of Passengers on one station platform for the trifling monthly expenditure of Re. 1. Parties advertising on six Stations or more will be allowed a discount of ten per cent. twelve Stations or more, twenty-five per cent.

The boards to be delivered at the Bombay Gazette Office, whence they will be sent by the Lessee to the various stations selected by the Advertiser. In the event of the contract terminating, the boards will be brought back to Bombay at the expense and risk of the Advertiser.

Special arrangements for long periods.

For further particulars apply to the Manager of the "Bombay Gazette" Office, Esplanade Road Fort.

CERTIFICATE.

I have carefully analysed a sample of VERY SUPERIOR OLD COGNAC, forwarded to me by Messrs. Cutler, Palmer & Co., Wine Merchants, London, in labelled bottles with branded corks, and capsuled, and find such to be of excellent strength, thoroughly matured by age, and free from all noxious ingredients. It possesses the full ethereal flavour or bouquet of the best brands, is eminently palatable, and is in all respects of first class quality.

TREACHER'S HIGHLAND MALT WHISKY.

THIS WHISKY has been imported for many years past by a few Gentlemen of Bombay for their own consumption, amongst whom it has attained a very considerable reputation.

The Whisky is the production of one of the oldest and largest distilleries in the Highlands, which confines itself entirely to the distillation of this specially fine Spirit.

It is not a blend, and, therefore, there is no possibility of its varying in character.

It has an agreeable odour, and a fine, full, mellow flavour, which will be much appreciated by connoisseurs.

TREACHER AND COMPANY, LIMITED, have been induced to import this genuine Old Highland Whisky with a view to its introduction into the Indian Market, feeling sure that it has only to be known to be appreciated.

Some of our Artist's symbols are too obscure for us to attempt an interpretation with any confidence ; for instance, in one large and striking composition in Electroplate the central figure is that of a muscular Boy not over-burdened with clothes, upholding a terrestrial Globe evidently much too heavy for him. Two Anchors are utilized as a Penrack ; on the top of the Inkbottle are the winged Caducis of Mercury ; while the third item, which completes the equipment, is a most modern patent spring Call-bell. 100 0

ALSO WRITINGS

TO WHICH SPECIAL ATTENTION IS CALLED THEY ARE :

1. UNIFORM IN FINISH. More pleasant to write upon with any pen than either the highly glazed or rough antique so often sold in Indian markets.
2. UNIFORM IN COLOUR. The shade is suited to the climate, and does not deteriorate like English papers.
3. SIMILAR IN TEXTURE AND HARDNESS to English tub-sized papers, and 2 annas per lb. cheaper.
4. GENUINE PAPERS, and consequently more durable than many imported paper which look well but give no satisfaction to the user.

Large stocks of all classes are kept, and special rates given for contract orders.

LUMINOUS PHOSPHORUS.
Important to Invalids!

H. & T. KIRBY & CO.'S PREPARATIONS possess the vitalizing and energizing properties of this Drug in a state of great activity. The Phosphorus being retained in them unoxidised, it is quickly assimilated and, if taken daily with food, supplies the brain and spinal cord with its proper Pabulum.
In this form it is powerfully remedial, effecting cures in apparently hopeless cases, after all other medicines had failed, particularly in LOSS OF NERVE POWER, as manifested by INCAPACITY FOR WORK, WANT OF ENERGY, LOWNESS OF SPIRITS, NEURALGIA, MENTAL DEPRESSION, MELANCHOLIA, FEEBLE DIGESTION AND CIRCULATION, COLD EXTREMITIES, WEAK HEART, LOSS OF PHYSICAL VIGOUR, and NERVOUS DEBILITY. For these and all other conditions indicating defective nutrition or exhaustion of the nervous centres, whether arising from overwork, the effect of climate or excess, Medical authorities all agree that PHOSPHORUS is the most effectual remedy.
The following preparations, of which we are the ORIGINAL Makers, are thoroughly reliable. They may be obtained from our appointed Agents (see below), in Bottles, 3s., 5s. and 10s. each (English money), the 10s. Bottle containing sufficient for a month's use. Two or three Bottles may be obtained direct from the makers' laboratory, carriage paid to any post town in India or Australia, by remitting Post Office Order for 21s.

SIMPLE PHOSPHORUS PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 5), containing 1-25th gr. Phosphorus.
Dr. KIRBY says: "Experience fully warrants the administration of Phosphorus in this dose;" in severe attacks of Neuralgia and cases of extreme Nervous Exhaustion it gives excellent results, taken with food three or four times a day.

PHOSPHORUS AND QUININE PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 3), containing 1-50th gr. Phosphorus.
This is a valuable combination of two powerful restoratives. As a nutrient tonic it gives power to the brain and nerve centres, imparts tone to the digestive organs, increases functional activity and improves the condition of the whole system. It is largely employed in India during convalescent stages of intermittent and remittent fevers. It is an excellent remedy for Malaise induced by the climate, and is a good prophylactic against Malaria.

PHOSPHORUS AND IRON PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 7), containing 1-50th gr. Phosphorus.
This is given with great advantage in Anæmia, Sciatica, and other Neuralgic affections in the treatment of convalescence from fever and other debilitating diseases. It is an excellent chemical food for anæmic children, and a good adjuvant to a cod liver oil.

PHOSPHORUS AND NUX VOMICA PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula No. 6), containing 1-33rd gr. Phosphorus.
This combination is useful in all the cases named above, but especially in cases of feeble digestion and loss of power, following excesses. Taken regularly with food for a few weeks it has a powerfully renovating effect on broken-down constitutions.

PHOSPHORUS, QUININE AND NUX VOMICA PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 4), containing 1-50th gr. Phosphorus.
The use of this combination will be gathered from what has been said of the previous Formulæ, Nos. 3 and 6.
For a similar combination with Iron, see No. 9.

COMPOUND PHOSPHORUS PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 9), containing 1-50th gr. Phosphorus, with Iron, Quinine and Strychnia.
This combination of nerve tonics has a very large application It is efficacious in Exhaustion in all disorders which are characterised by impoverished blood and diminished nerve power, especially in that low condition of the general health which is induced by overwork, dissipation, and excesses of various kinds. In this state iron and phosphorus is strongly indicated. In Constitutional Syphilis it has a high remedial power, by improving the condition of the blood and by imbuing it with regenerative power. It is exceedingly energising and strength-giving. As a tonic for convalescents recovering from fever and other exhausting diseases it is unequalled.

STRONG PHOSPHORUS, IRON, QUININE AND NUX VOMICA PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 17), containing 1-25th gr. Phosphorus.
This is double the strength of No. 9 as regards Phosphorus and Quinine, and therefore should be prescribed only in Cases where the larger dose of Phosphorus is needed.

PHOSPHORUS, CANTHARIDES & NUX VOMICA PILLS.
(Dr. KIRBY's Formula, No. 20), containing 1-33rd gr. Phosphorus.
This pill produces no irritation of the gastro-intestinal mucous membrane, but operates as a gentle stimulant to the genito-urinal organs. It is especially useful in premature failure of power, induced by passive discharges due to debility. It is useful also as a stimulating accompaniment in the ultimate cases of Amenorrhœa, Leucorrhœa, and Atony of the Uterus.
Formula No. 20 contains iron, and as a tonic is most suitable for feeble, anæmic females.

For fuller particulars of other Combinations, Medical Men are invited to apply to the Agents for descriptive pamphlet, supplied free of charge.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE,
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary aching of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating system, you should procure and use that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the Profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma

A NEW POISON.

COCAINE, as is now well known, is a very valuable but an exceedingly dangerous drug; and M. Dufournier has lately published in the Archives de Medicine the remarkable results of his investigations into its use. Cases where accidents have occurred are very numerous, and there is hardly a surgeon using cocaine who had not occasion to witness them. As early as in 1887, Dr. Mattison published the account of forty such instances, and the roll of victims who have lost their life from a dose of cocaine has now reached as high as nine. In a large number of cases it has given rise to a species of poisoning from which the patient usually recovers. Among the phenomena characterising this form of poisoning one observed in a patient of Dr. E. Bradly is worthy of special mention. This patient was taken with facial paralysis, from which he did not recover for six months. Other symptoms are hallucinations, great excitement, and cerebral agitation; and, finally, Dr. Leslie Calloghan in one case saw the entire body covered by a scarlatiniform rash.

Dr. Szunman, wishing to remove a large wart situated at the base of the thumb of a young girl of twenty, injected under the skin, close to the wart, one gramme centimètre cube of a one-tenth solution of cocaine. The patient felt no pain, but as the little wound was being sewed together she suddenly lost her colour and fainted; her pulse became weak and slow, and her hands and feet stiffened. Water was dashed in her face, and she recovered consciousness, but she did not regain at once her sense of feeling, as she kept asking where her hands were. By this time the stiffening had extended to the whole of her person; but these alarming symptoms quieted down little by little, and by half an hour's time they all came to a happy end. This case represents the mildest form of poisoning by cocaine. Between this form and the cases in which death ensued come in a series of severer forms in which the alarming symptoms lasted from three hours to five or six days.

Dr. Baratoux mentions the case of a druggist who under the impression that he was attacked by diphtheria, sprayed his throat with a solution of cocaine; for seven or eight hours he passed from one syncope to another, until he finally succumbed. Dr. Abadie reports another case—a woman of seventy-one. She received a hypodermic injection of four centigrammes of cocaine in her lower eyelid before undergoing a trivial operation in that region. At the close of the operation she fainted and her face became purple as in asphyxia. In spite of the fact that artificial respiration was performed, and that hypodermic injections of ether and caffeine were made, and though the heart seemed for a moment to revive her, this unfortunate woman died five hours afterwards.

If we endeavour to ascertain to what cause to ascribe these different symptoms and these cases of death, we note that the most frequent is the use of too large a dose of cocaine. The highest dose that can be used without risk is, according to some, three centigrammes; according to others, twenty centigrammes. Between these two quantities, that are so wide apart, there is a moderate dose that we can not as being from five to seven centigrammes; with this dose it may possibly happen that in some cases total anæsthesia will not be reached, but in the very larger number of cases no alarming symptoms will be observed. Still, it is prudent to refuse to give cocaine to aged persons, to highly nervous people, or such as are run down from any cause.

ADDRESS TO A MILL MANAGER.—On Saturday the officials and operatives of the Jubilee Mills at Sewree, presented an address to their manager Mr. Ellis Parkinson on his leaving them to join another mill. The address which was enclosed in a nicely-covered sandal-wood case was read by Mr. Framjee Cowasjee Kaka, the head clerk of the mills who, on behalf of the officials and operatives, spoke of the kindness and courtesy shown by Mr. Parkinson during the tenure of his office. A gold watch and chain with an inscription thereon was then presented to him. The gathering dispersed after partaking of refreshments.

A MEETING OF THEOSOPHISTS.—As there will be many visitors to Bombay from all parts of India in December next, it is proposed to hold a meeting of Theosophists there at that time, for the mutual interchange of ideas, and for taking steps to help the theosophical movement, and to secure greater co-operation in the work of the Theosophical Society. The general secretary of the Bombay section of the Theosophical Society will make the necessary arrangements for the meeting, and all the branches as well as individual fellows are requested in a circular which has just been issued to send early information to him as to what fellows will then be coming to Bombay, so that they may be duly informed of the day and place of meeting. This meeting will not be an annual or other convention of the Theosophical Society, but an unofficial gathering called at the request of a large number of the fellows, by arrangement between the general secretaries of the Indian Sections of the T. S. and upon their authority.

ARRIVAL OF H. M. S. FLAGSHIP BOADICEA.

HER MAJESTY'S FLAGSHIP BOADICEA, Commander Hon. A. G. Curgn-Hoive, with the Honourable Sir E. R. Fremantle, K.C.B. C.M.G., arrived in harbour on Saturday at 12-30 p. m. from Zanzibar, which port she left on the 24th October, and Mombasa on the 28th October. The Boadicea had been stationed at the East Coast of Africa for the last fifteen months; she was employed there for blockade purposes, since last November. She brings information that the Reindeer captured a slave-dhow at Pemba in October last containing about 135 slaves, and set them free. The Tourquise was expected to arrive at Zanzibar on the 28th of last month from Seychelles Isles, and also the German Cruza Sperber, from Germany. The following vessels were lying at Zanzibar when she left the port:—Cossack, Mariner, Reindeer, Pigeon, the Austrian Corvette Aurora, and the French gun vessel Bouvet. The German Carola and Schwalbe were at Bagamoyo. The Boadicea was expected here on the 7th instant, but she was detained on a count of the mail steamer Bagdad which reached Mombassa two days later. The weather experienced on the voyage was very pleasant. Her stay in Bombay will last about a fortnight, and her future movements are not yet determined. Everything was quiet on the coast under English influence, large quantities of stores having arrived for the Imperial British African Company at Mombassa. The natives under command of Colonel Pollock were settling down and doing good work. Many Hindoos and Banians arrived and settled at Mombassa lately. Mr. Mackenzie was expected this month to superintend the affairs of the company, coming out in the first of the new line of B. S. Steamers from Naples together with Colonel and Mrs. Euan Smith H.B.M. Agent and Consul-General at Zanzibar. On the coast under German influence things are still unsettled; Bushiri was threatening Bogamoyo, and the Carola and Schwalbe were guarding that place and Dar-es-Salaam. Captain Wissmann with a strong force was expected to return to the coast striking in at Saadani. In consequence of these disturbing influences, trade is very dull with the natives. As to the English territory the British Commander-in-Chief has raised a blockade on the coast, always continuing the action against slave-tradings. The importation of arms into the German territory remains strictly prohibited.

NATIVE PRESS.

A WORD WITH PARSEE YOUTHS.

THE Indian Spectator says:—It would seem as if Parsee youths are not to be satisfied till they have contracted every fashionable vice from Englishmen. For some time past they have been going in for smoking. And a time may come when a Parsi youth will consider his education as incomplete, till he has learnt to smoke cigars. While our juvenile co-religionists are behaving thus, we hear that in England ladies are taking kindly to the noxious weed. The Parsee must imitate the Englishman in his weaknesses, more than in his virtues. Similarly, the English lady is desirous of maintaining her own rights, and of showing to the world that there should be no exclusive male prerogatives. The Lancet remarks that smoking may be, under certain circumstances, beneficial to health. Yet it would tend to lower the womanhood of English women. And we agree with the writer. Let the Parsee youth, too, take a lesson from this. He has weaknesses and foibles enough of his own. Need he go on adding to the list?

"THE PLIGHTED WORD OF GOVERNMENT."

If the Bombay Civilians desire to demonstrate to the world, or at least to the Indian world, their possession of a keen sense of honour and a spotless integrity, or rather their undiminished concern for that undoubted possession of theirs, they cannot do better than act on the suggestion which, it is said, is being made to show that they should memorialise the authorities in the matter of the Government guarantee. Such an act on their part cannot be a violation of discipline, but it will be one of fidelity to their duty as intermediaries between the people and the Government. It will, in fact, be like a faithful Dewan opening the eyes of an erring Raja to the danger of the mistakes into which he may be led. And have they not, in those words of one who may be called their official Mountstuart Elphinstone, warrant enough in following such a course? We regret we cannot just now lay our hands on the quotation, but speaking to a comrade, he is reported to have said:—"The Governor-General may pass any orders he pleases; but we, who have to carry them out, must see that no plighted word of the Government is violated." Nothing can be more to the point. The outside world may be deluded as to the real situation, but the civilian administrators of the country cannot but be thoroughly conscious of it, and, therefore, they can only have one opinion as to the consequences of the violation of the plighted word of the Government, not only morally and politically, but even with regard to the very question of the purity of the administration. They cannot afford to see comparatively innocent men dismissed from the service in the name of that purity, while men whose guilt is of a deeper dye, but who are taken to be innocent because they have not confessed, are retained. What influence can the civilians exercise over the people under such circumstances, unless they speak out as their covenant and their courageous sense of duty lead the public to expect they should?—Indian Spectator.

FLORILINE!—FOR THE TEETH AND BREATH.—A few drops of the liquid "Floriline" sprinkled on a wet tooth-brush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from all parasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives to the teeth a peculiar pearly whiteness and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. The "Fragrant Floriline," being composed in part of honey and sweet herbs, is delicious to the taste, and the greatest toilet discovery of the age. Price 2s. 6d., of all Chemists and Perfumers throughout the world. Sold wholesale by the Anglo-American Drug Company, Limited Farringdon-road, London.

THE Marquis of Salisbury arrived in London on Friday from Paris.

A Royal proclamation in the Gazette further prorogues Parliament until December 20, but no mention is made of its then meeting "for despatch of business."

Mr. A. J. Balfour, M.P., Chief Secretary for Ireland, left Hadfield on Tuesday for Dublin.

Sir F. Mappin, M.P., addressing a meeting at Sheffield on Monday, indignantly denied that his baronetcy had been conferred in consideration of his vote from Home Rule.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, M.P., on Saturday, addressed a very large meeting of his constituents at Manchester in vindication of the Irish policy of the Government. His reception was most cordial, and a vote of confidence in him was passed.

A Unionist meeting held at Redruth on Saturday, was broken up in disorder owing to the violent behaviour of a large number of men, who prevented all speeches from being heard.

Mr. Gladstone addressed a meeting at Southport on Wednesday, and, after stigmatizing Turkish misgovernment as a standing menace to the peace of Europe, he declared that the useful measures passed during the last Session of Parliament were those which were approved by the Liberal party, while those proposed by the Government were half-hearted or imperfect.

Mr. G. Loder, Conservative, and Sir R. Peel, Gladstonian, were nominated as candidates on Tuesday at Brighton. The contest has been carried on with great vigour on both sides, and each candidate has had the assistance of numerous Parliamentary speakers. The polling is fixed for to-day.

The sittings of the Law Courts in London were resumed yesterday after the Long Vacation.

The sittings of the Special Commission were recommenced yesterday. The counsel for The Times were present, but the counsel for the members of Parliament and others implicated did not appear. Mr. Biggar, M.P., addressed the Court in a short speech, alleging that the evidence did not prove anything illegal in the conduct of those accused. Mr. Davitt followed with a long written address which was not concluded at the rising of the Court.

Viscount Torrington died on Sunday last, aged 48.

The Earl of Orkney, a Scottish representative peer, died on Monday, aged 62.

The Earl of Leven and Melville, also a Scottish representative peer, died on Tuesday, aged 72.

The deaths are also announced of General J. R. Stuart, Colonel of the Dorsetshire Regiment, and of Sir J. B. Maule, Q.C., aged 72.

Lieutenant-Colonel B. Jackson, one of the four surviving officers who were engaged at Waterloo, died on Tuesday, aged 94.

Lady Willoughby de Broke was thrown on Monday while hunting with the Warwickshire Hounds. It is believed that her injuries are not dangerous.

Mr. Bradlaugh, M.P., is severely ill from fever.

Mr. H. Cadman, of the North-Eastern Circuit, has been appointed a Judge of County Courts in Yorkshire.

The Primate on Tuesday commenced his visitation in Canterbury Cathedral, and in his charge he dwelt on the duty and the power of the Church to promote civil and religious improvements. The Archbishop has continued his addresses, and will conclude them to-day.

The Lord Mayor on Tuesday entertained about 300 provincial Mayors and Provosts at the Mansion-house. Mr. Ritchie, President of the Local Government Board, was present, and spoke strongly on the necessity for providing healthy dwellings for a labouring people.

The annual Harveian oration was delivered on Friday by Dr. J. G. Pollock at the Royal College of Physicians.

On Saturday about 2,000 men and boys employed at Lord Londonderry's collieries, near Sunderland, struck for increased pay. An offer to submit the dispute to Lord Herschell was refused by the men.

Several meeting of workpeople were held on Sunday, the principal one being at Battersea, of railway servants, whom Mr. J. Burns addressed upon their grievances. A meeting of Post Office servants was held in Hyde-park, at which the speakers called upon the Government to form a union in order to obtain better terms of work and payment.

A man yesterday entered a branch bank at Didsbury, near Manchester, and fired a revolver at the manager, whom he wounded, and seizing notes, value £80, made off and was followed, but he shot himself fatally to avoid capture.

A boy at Margate committed suicide on Thursday by placing himself on the railway and allowing himself to be run over by a train.

Circulars have been sent to the various branches of the National League in Tipperary inviting them to select delegates to attend a conference at Thurles to inaugurate the new Tenants' Defence League.

A young girl, aged 17, who, with her sister, carried on business in Manchester as a tobacconist, shot herself on Sunday night.

The fortnightly meeting of the National League was held in Dublin on Tuesday, and subscriptions from Irish branches were announced to the amount of £332. A further sum of £2,000 had also been sent from Australia.

At Maryborough Assizes on Tuesday a verdict of manslaughter was returned against Wm. Coll, charged with the murder of Inspector Martin at Gweedore. Sentence was deferred.

A complete jury has at last been formed at Chicago for the trial of the Cronin murder case.

It was officially announced on Tuesday in Berlin that the territory of the Sultan of Vitu, on the East African Coast, has been placed under the protectorate of Germany.

The Mingoon Prince has escaped from Pondicherry, and is believed to be making his way to the Shan States. It is feared that his reappearance may stimulate rebellion in Upper Burmah.

A REPORT from Kiel, dated October 21, states:—The steamer National reached Ascension on September 10, where the Piankton Expedition was received in the most friendly manner by Governor Nadier. On arriving at Para, on the 24th September, the vessel's shaft had to undergo repairs, whereby the expedition was delayed until October 2. Then followed a six days' voyage up the Amazon, after which the homeward voyage was commenced. The arrival back at Kiel may be expected by November 5.

dA SEBASTOPOL correspondent writes:—"Yesterdy, the 17th of October, being the anniversary of the commencement of the seige of Sbastopol, in 1854, a requiem was celebrated at 11 a. m. in the mausoleum of the magnificent memorial cathedral of St. Vladimir, Admiral Edward Seymour, C. B., Captain Spencer Smith, R. N., and Captain S. H. Harford, Vice-Consul, having served at the siege, received invitations to the ceremony, which was of a very imposing character. At the conclusion, Admiral Seymour was invited to a dejeuner at the Naval Club, consisting only of those surviving officers who were present on the opening day of the siege. Thirteen admirals and one general formed the party, and after the usual loyal toasts had been given, the health of the Queen was proposed, to which Admiral Seymour responded in appropriate terms. The health of Admiral Seymour, as representative of our navy, was then drunk, the admiral, in returning thanks, drinking to the prosperity of Sebastopol."

EUCLID'S ELEMENTS IN SANSKRIT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In thanking your contemporary for the kind things said about me in a leader that I lately read in its weekly Summary of 11th ultimo, will you kindly permit me to set right certain errors that have crept therein. The errors therein may either be of your contemporary or of the Athenaeum of 24th September last, which seems to have served as the ground work of your contemporary's leader. Or they may even be due to the report of the correspondent of London Times. I cannot be positive on the head as I have not been able to read the Times or the Athenaeum, and even your weekly Summaries I read by chance in the steamer on my way to India.

Now as regards the errors. (1) The work mentioned above was not discovered at Jaypur, but it was found by Mr. J. S. Gadgil, of the Baroda Varisht Court at Baroda, and I got it from him within less of a fortnight of my leaving for the Congress on the 5th July by the s. s. Maria Theresa. (2.) It is not "the lost four books" only of Euclid that have been discovered here. From the popular editions of Euclid of Potz and Todhunter we know only of the first six books of Euclid's elements of Geometry complete and fragments of books XI. and XII., while Euclid's work was originally said to have consisted of thirteen books and two more were added to them by Hypsicles making the "elements" to consist of fifteen books. The missing books were said to have been consumed in the burning of the Alexandrian Library by Khalif Omar. But they do not appear to have been entirely lost, as a translation in Arabic in thirteen books appears to have come down to us by Al Nasir in the thirteenth century. There were also publications in Greek and Latin at Oxford and Berlin in the eighteenth century, in some cases with English translations and notes of a few here and a few there—but in no case as far as I know, beyond the thirteenth book. My notice has recently been attracted to a valuable complete edition of all the fifteen books in Greek and Latin by Messrs. Trubner and Company of London, in five volumes, the last of which appeared but last year. While looking into the Royal Library and the astronomical Library at Stockholm after the Congress, I chanced to see this edition of Euclid of Messrs. Trubner and Company, as also other and earlier editions of Euclid in the fifteenth century and the succeeding ones. In one case I was surprised to see that instead of the last two books added by Hypsicles there were three; but I had very little time to determine whether the three books were merely the splitting up of the too old ones or there was an additional third supplementing those two. But, at any rate, the general impression was of the existence of only the first six as complete and the eleventh and the twelfth in a fragmentary state. And so in the Sanskrit work recently found out there is indeed a chance of one coming upon the missing books not four but more. But this is rather a technical or debatable ground. I will speak further with regard to my "theory" of the question as the London Times puts it. (3.) It was not Dr. Buhler alone that questioned some of my deductions when my paper on the work was read before the Aryan section on the 3rd of September, but Dr. Burgess put in a caveat on the question that Sanskrit and India alone had preserved the missing books and that perhaps the writer of the work was not indebted to any western meaning Arabic or European source for his composition. This brings me to my views of the question or my "theory," and a little fuller account of the work itself.

The work in question is named "Rekha Ganita

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, Nov. 9.

CONTINUING its upward course, Silver was 1-16d. higher in London yesterday, according to Reuter, at 43 15-16d. per oz.—a price which has not been touched by the metal since the latter part of September 1888, when 44½d. to 44 3-16d. was reached, the market suddenly falling therefrom to 43d., from which there was but a partial recovery, the price, after touching 42 5-16d., having stood at 42½d. by the end of the year. Consols were ⅛ per cent. lower, at 97⅛. Indian Sterling Loan was stationary at 107; and Rupee Securities were unaltered in each denomination. The Exchange Banks' buying rate on India at 30 days' sight was advanced to 1s. 4 7-16d. Paris quotations for Rentes and Exchange on London come unaltered. The weekly Specie shipments to Bombay consisted of £120,000 in Silver, and £10,000 in Gold.

The General Produce markets were unaltered, with the exception of that for Coffee which was quiet at a further decline of 1s. per cwt. in Mid.-Plantation. The total quantity of Wheat afloat for the United Kingdom was 20,000 quarters less than on the previous Friday at 1,440,000 quarters.

COTTON closed steady in Liverpool last evening, the total sales having aggregated 14,000 bales, inclusive of 1,000 Surats. The price of Mid. American remained at 5⅞d., and all spot rates for East Indians were unchanged; but American Arrivals were 1-32d. higher in all positions. The day's Imports were 18,000 bales. The Manchester Market was firm with a hardening tendency in prices, which restricted business; but the actual quotations for Goods and Yarn wired by Reuter show no change in any item. This afternoon the Liverpool market closed firm, both generally and for Surats, the sales having reached the large figures, for Saturday, of 12,000 bales, of which 1,500 were East Indian Cotton. Spot and arrival prices were quite unaltered. The Imports were large at 31,000 bales.

A further material increase in the volume of business in Liverpool is shown by the weekly statistics wired through Reuter, the sales having been 15,000 bales greater than for the previous week, at 82,000 bales; while the amount taken by the trade and forwarded was 11,000 bales larger, at 153,000 bales. The Imports were exactly the same at 106,000 bales. Total Stock had increased by 22,000 bales during the week, and, as will be seen from the figures which we give below, it had about reached the bulk on hand at the same time the year before last, while it was heavier, by some 181,000 bales than last year, at this date. The stock of East Indian Cotton had decreased by 6,000 bales, and stood yesterday at 129,000 bales. In the total Visible Supply there had been an increase during the week of over a quarter of a million bales; but of East Indian there were 17,000 bales less in sight. The increase now shown in the total supply compared with last year's figures, is 364,000 bales, while the falling off as against 1887 has become reduced to some 2,500 bales; and in the case of Surats an increase of 106,000 bales and a decrease of 113,000 bales, is now apparent as against last year and the year before, respectively. It will also be noticed that there are 100,000 bales more American Cotton afloat for the United Kingdom than was the case last year and in 1887 at this time.

Spot prices have not varied much during the week, an advance of 1-16d. in Mid-American having been soon lost; but in American Arrivals a rise of 9-64d. for the nearest deliveries, and of ⅛d. in all other positions, has been established. The spot quotation as it stood yesterday was the same as at this time last year, and 1-16d. higher than in 1887.

One point advance in the rate for February Futures, at 10·26 cents was the only change in New York prices yesterday, the spot quotation having remained at 10½ cent. The Receipts at the U. S. Ports were 45,000 bales, making the week's total considerably above that of the corresponding week last year, and nearly equal to that in 1887. The total figures since the beginning of the new season now showing an increase of 393,000 bales compared with 1888, and a falling off of 122,000 bales as against 1887. To-day's message reports a decline of 4 points in February Futures at 10·22 cents, the spot price remaining unaltered. The Receipts were 42,000 bales against 37,000 bales both last year and the year before.

The American Crop figures to date give the following comparisons with the two previous seasons:—

	1889.	1888.	1887.
Week's receipts	293,000	267,000	301,000
" exports to U. K.	75,000	10,000	89,000
" " Continent	38,000	50,000	105,000
Total receipts since 1st Sept	2,212,000	1,819,000	2,331,000

" " to Continent do.	516,000	368,000	829,000
" Stock in the Ports	655,000	657,000	736,000

The total Visible Supply of Cotton for all Europe on 8th instant affords the following comparisons with the two previous years:—

	1889.	1888.	1887.
Total supply of all kinds	2,253,000	1,886,330	2,552,440
" " Surats	214,000	138,400	357,199

For the United Kingdom only the figures are:—

Stock in Liverpool	467,000	286,100	467,270
" London	17,000	7,000	10,000
American Afloat	350,000	231,000	250,000
East Indian "	11,000	10,000	13,000
	848,000	534,100	770,270
Price of Mid.-Americans	5⅞d.	5⅞d.	5 11-16d.
" Good Fair Dhollera	1 5-16d.
Difference	1 7-16d.

To-day having been observed as a general holiday, the Banks, Stock and Share, and Wheat and Seed markets were closed, and little business of any kind was transacted. The Cotton market was nominally open, but the only transaction reported was the purchase of a few hundred bales of ready Bengals at Rs. 185 per candy, the tone of the market being called steady and prices unchanged.

The Receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were as follows:—

Cotton	1,260 bales.
Wheat	21,030 cwts.
Linseed	3,277 "
Rapeseed	1,872 "
Gingelly	3,952 "
Ground Nuts	1,113 "

THE PRINCE'S VISIT TO EGYPT.

LORD SALISBURY REPLIES TO FRENCH CRITICISM.

At the Lord Mayor's banquet at the Mansion House last night, Lord Salisbury, responding to the toast of her Majesty's Ministers, said in reference to French criticisms on the Prince of Wales's visit to Egypt, that the time had not yet arrived for England to evacuate the country. The Mahdists might at any time, and probably would, repeat their attacks on frontier stations.

Alluding to affairs in Crete Lord Salisbury said that faction fighting was nearly at an end; and in conclusion his lordship declared that the present state of Europe and the scope of its prosperity without war, were such that statesmen best qualified to judge, believed the prospects of peace were greater than ever.

THE RUSSIAN MISSION TO TIBET.

The Russki Invalid of 30th September (12th October) contains the following telegram respecting the Russian mission to Tibet:—Tashkend, 29th (16)September.—According to intelligence received here Colonel Pevtsoff's expeditionary party is now in the Teke-Tan Mountains on the road to Khotan. The Chinese authorities at Utch-Turfan received the party very cordially, and after a stay there of three days the expedition moved onwards through the Dungartma gorge. A march of seventeen days brought the party into the plain of Arta-kum. The Yarkand Daria was reached in another seven days' march. Having stayed five days at Yarkand, the expeditionary party marched towards Khotan, and then turned southwards in the direction of the Teke-Tan Mountains. It was proposed that the party should remain here a month, but by this time Colonel Pevtsoff's mission must be at Khotan."

The Pioneer remarks that the foregoing does not correspond with Mr. Dan Vergne's account of the mission.

A POLITICAL REFUGEE TRYING TO ESCAPE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PONDICHERRY, Nov. 10.

A son of a late sirdar, formerly belonging to the Punjab Civil Service, but for some years a political refugee residing at Pondichery, took passage in a private steamer for Marseilles; but finding his movements watched by some English-looking people he refused to embark, fearing consequences at Colombo taken in connection with the late escape in disguise of the Meingoon Prince.

The circumstance looks supicious, and is so regarded here.

PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR AT POONA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, Nov. 10.

Precisely at 6-30 p.m. the special train conveying his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor of Wales steamed into the Kirkee station. A guard-of-honour of 100 rank-and-file of the Royal Fusiliers, with band and colours, under the command of Captain Briggs, which was drawn up at the south end of the platform, presented arms as soon as the Royal visitor alighted, and the band played the National Anthem. The scene at the station was exceedingly pretty. The blaze of military uniforms, the glittering garb of the bejewelled Chiefs, the spotless white of the flowing draperies of the Mahratta Brahmins combined to make the picture more than ordinarily brilliant.

Major-General Solly-Flood and other General Officers present were introduced to his Royal Highness by the Duke of Connaught, and the Governor performed a similar duty with regard to the Political Officers and Native Chiefs. General Solly-Flood introduced the Officers Commanding the Regiments.

The station was elegantly decorated with flags and evergreens. The cornices supported trophies of flags, and from every alternate pole fluttered the British Ensign. The platform was covered with red cloth.

Among others who were introduced were Sir Raymond West, the Hon. Mr. Pritchard, Mr. Monteath, Mr. Propert, Mr. Moore, the Rajas of Kolapore, Bhavnagar, and Akalkote, the Chiefs of Bhor, Phaltana, and Miraj; Surgeon-General Webb, General Anderson, the Bishop of Bombay, Colonel Hogg, and Mr. Nugent.

His Royal Highness, with the Duke of Connaught and Sir Edward Bradford, drove to Guneshkhind (whither Lord Reay had preceded them) in a carriage and four with out-riders. Then followed Colonel Lyttelton, Colonel Becher, and Captains Holford and Harvey.

The appearance of the Prince outside the station was greeted by salvoes of Artillery and a blaze of trumpets. The Non-Commissioned officers of the Royal Horse Artillery lined the road as far as the level crossing gates, the alignment then being taken up by the 3rd and 4th Bombay Cavalry. The route was by the Botanical Gardens. As the Prince drove along, escorted by a detachment of his Excellency's Body Guard, the troops presented arms. The darkness of the night, of course, robbed the spectacle of much of its effect.

On arrival at Government House the Prince was received by Lord Reay, H. R. H. the Duchess of Connaught, and Lady Reay. A guard-of-honour of the 28th Pioneers, under Captain Atkins, and a complement of native officers drawn up, under the porch, presented arms, and the band played the National Anthem.

The Prince, after exchanging courtesies with the ladies and gentlemen present, among whom were Mrs. and Miss Pottinger and General Pottinger, was conducted to an elegant suite of rooms on the north side of the building, beautifully furnished and draped.

STATE DINNER AT GUNESHKHIND.

At 9 o'clock sixty ladies and gentlemen sat down to dinner. The table decorations were elegant, deep red leaves reflected in plateaux of glass forming the principal feature.

The company included Prince Victor, their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, the Lord Bishop of Bombay, Mrs. Lyttelton, Sir Raymond West, General Sir E. Bradford, Mr. Nugent, Mr. Propert, Mr. Moore, General Solly-Flood, Surgeon-General Pinkerton, General Pottinger, Surgeon-General Webb, Sir Arthur and Lady Hayter, Mr. Monteath, Mr. Hughes, Colonel Firebrace, General Knowles, Mr. Stockinger, Mr. Lockhart, Mr. Rawlings, Mr. Hinde, Mr. East, Colonel Cavaye and Mrs. Cavaye, Colonel Jopp, Mr. Greig, Mr. Cunningham Hogg, Mr. Godfrey, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Ommauney, Mr. Batty, Mr. Crowe, Colonel Becher, Mr. Cooke, Mr. Shuttleworth, Mr. J. Cook, Mr. Selby, Mr. Linden, Mr. Jenkins, Mr. Bowen, Mr. Horne, Mr. Burke, Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Plunkett, Captains Pagett, Gordon, Holdforth, and Harvey, Lieutenants Luard, Edgerley and Irving, Captain Phayre, Lieutenants Forbes and Penny.

The toasts of the Queen-Empress, the Prince of Wales, and the Royal visitor were honoured. The first was proposed by Lord Reay, the second by the Duke of Connaught, and the third by Lord Reay, all being received with the utmost enthusiasm. After dinner a reception of Chiefs, a most brilliant function, was held. The Raja of Kolapur wore a magnificent set of diamonds. The Raja of Akalkote, in white and green. The Raja of Bhavnagar and the Chiefs of Phaltana, Miraj, Chagul, Bhor, and their suites were also present.

An officer's guard of 45 rank-and-file of the Durham Light Infantry was in attendance at Guneshkind.

The Prince attended divine service this morning at eleven o'clock, when the Bishop of Bombay preached.

A GENERAL HOLIDAY AT BHOWNAGAR.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BHOWNAGAR, Nov. 9.

To-day has been observed as a general holiday throughout the whole of Bhownagar territory, in accordance with the Darbar notification issued by H.H. the Maharajah Saheb. Arrangements were made for the despatch of an urgent message from Bombay to inform his Highness of the time of the arrival of Prince Albert Victor. No sooner was the telegram received (at about 1-45) than a Royal salute was fired from the battery here. His Highness thereby announced to his expectant subjects the arrival of his Royal Highness on Indian soil. The booming of guns reminded us of the genuine feelings of steadfast loyalty which H. H. Sir Takhtsingji cherishes for the British throne, and which he evinces in various ways.

THE MYSORE PROGRAMME.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MYSORE, Nov. 10.

An express report received in Mysore this morning from Mr. Sanderson, Superintendent of Kheddahs, Bengal, on special duty, in the Mysore province, states that yesterday a large herd of elephants, not yet counted, but numbering seventy or more, was surrounded on the Biligirirungan hills, where it is intended to show H. R. H. Prince Albert Victor an elephant drive. The Royal visit to the Kheddah is fixed for the 25th inst. and the elephant will be guarded till then. Fodder and water are reported plentiful in the locality, and the animals are not likely to escape from the experienced hands of Mr. Sanderson. A bison hunt is projected for the Prince, also under Mr. Sanderson's direction. In fact, the programme for his Royal Highness's entertainment in Mysore is largely a sporting one, and, as regards elephants, entirely unique.

ARRIVAL OF THE OVERLAND MAIL.

THE P. and O. Mail steamer Siam, arrived off the Apollo Bunder last night at half-past ten o'clock. A list of the passengers by the mail and the heads of intelligence will be found on page 3.

ARRIVAL OF PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR.

BOMBAY was never put into such a state of commotion before by the appearance of any great personage in its midst, as the city was on Saturday, by the sudden arrival of his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor of Wales. Everybody knows how it was first announced the P. and O. steamer Oceana, with her Royal passenger, would in all probability reach Bombay about noon. Then it was considered no more inconvenient time could be fixed for the landing of his Royal Highness than under the heat of a noon-day sun, and a telegram was despatched to Suez, requesting the captain of the ship that he might, if possible, put on all steam and try to reach Bombay in the morning not later than eight o'clock. Arrangements were made accordingly; the military, and the Volunteers were ordered to be out in the early morning to parade on the Apollo Bunder and line the streets by eight o'clock, and the tickets issued to those who were to take part in the reception at the Bunder distinctly said 8 a.m. Then came the telegram from Aden, which stated that the Oceana had arrived there at 8 p.m. on Monday night, had left at 9 p.m., and so could not reach Bombay harbour much before twoo'clock on Saturday afternoon. Thus the arrangements for the morning reception were all upset, and a new programme had to be made out, or rather the hours had all to be altered. Four o'clock was fixed for the hour of landing. When Captain Tomlin of the Oceana was told what was expected of him, or of his good ship rather, that she was wanted to reach Bombay by eight o'clock on Saturday morning, he shook his head. He would try, but he could not guarantee reaching Bombay before two o'clock in the afternoon. Hence the news was wired hither which was the cause of so much confusion on Saturday morning.

There was a general rush for the Apollo Bunder, which was soon crowded. The Oceana was more than sighted. There lay the big ship at eight o'clock; her masts glistening in the morning sun, and covered from stem to stern with bright pennons, resting already at anchor, her bows pointed towards the shore. Then came a scramble. Sepoys were sent for reinforcements of sepoys, who in turn were despatched in all directions to find those in authority, while the workmen almost tumbled over each other in their haste to get the Bunder steps laid with crimson carpeting. And where was the flagship Boadicea, which was to fire the salute to his Royal Highness on the s.s. Oceana reaching the harbour? She was expected on Thursday, but had not yet arrived, nor were there any signs of her on the horizon. H. M. S. Garnet, however, discharged the Boadicea's duties. The tars hurried up the masts and manned the yards; streamers were run up from stem to stern, while her guns boomed a welcome. The people residing in Parel, Dadur, Sion, Mahim, Bandora, and all the outlying districts were less fortunate than those in Bombay. Unaware of the Oceana's sudden arrival, they came into the city by gharry and car about two in the afternoon, and were very much disgusted to find that the Prince had not only arrived, but departed for Poona. It was still more annoying for those who had travelled long distances by rail, and did not arrive in the city till all was over.

ON BOARD THE OCEANA.

Meanwhile all was excitement on the Oceana. When the news was conveyed on board that all was not in readiness on shore for his Royal Highness's landing, that the ship had not been expected till afternoon, and that arrangements had been made for his coming ashore at four in the afternoon, great surprise was expressed. Captain Tomlin had been asked to try and bring his ship into port by eight in the morning. He had not been very sure about it; but he had done it, beating all former records of sailings between Aden and Bombay, by fully an hour. In the month of October, 1887, the P. and O. s. s. Victoria ran from Aden to Bombay in four days eleven hours and thirty-eight minutes. That remained the record till Saturday morning, when it was found the Oceana had accomplished the run in four days ten and a half hours. The question now was, what was to be done. It would have been going a little too far to have expected the Prince to remain on board all day till late in the afternoon; especially as he had appeared on deck in the uniform of an officer of the 10th Hussars. But the news was brought on board that preparations were being pushed forward with all speed for his immediate reception. Everybody knows the confusion, the hurry, the bustle, the noise there are on board a ship reaching a port after a long voyage. Everybody is anxious to set foot once more on land. But on Saturday morning the bustle beggared all description. The ship was full of passengers, there being in all 294 on board, and all or nearly all were in a state of the most intense excitement to get on shore in time to see the Prince land. But they need not have hurried so much. The Prince did not go ashore immediately. He was ready when those on shore were ready to receive him; but he moved about in the best of spirits, chatting with Lord and Lady Claude Hamilton, and bidding good-bye to the ladies and gentlemen who had been of his party during the voyage; or holding converse with the gentlemen of his suite, Captain Holford of the 1st Life Guards, and Captain Harvey of the 10th Hussars. Meanwhile General Sir Edward Bradford, who accompanied his Royal Highness's father the Prince of Wales on his Indian tour of 1875-76, and who is now performing the same duties for the young Prince, hurried about, the busiest of the busy, personally superintending the arrangements for Prince Albert Victor's departure for the shore. Time passed; the Prince and his party partook of breakfast comfortably; and then shortly before eleven o'clock a large steam-launch was seen to put off from shore showing the Royal ensign. The boat made fast alongside, and H. E. the Governor and H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by their staffs, stepped on board. His Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor received Lord Reay and the Duke at the top of the ladder; and after cordially greeting both, the Prince retired with his uncle to his private room on the hurricane deck, where they engaged in a short conversation together. They presently returned, however, and stood talking with Lord Reay, Lord and Lady Claude Hamilton, till all arrangements complete, they prepared to set off for shore. The harbour now presented a beautiful spectacle. All the ships at anchor were clad in a mass of fluttering colour, the decorations on the Bunder and the Yacht Club looked even prettier than they did on shore, while a dark line along the Bunder walls showed that, whoever they were, a considerable crowd had assembled to give welcome to the Prince. On the launch steaming off from the Oceana's side, the Garnet, whose rigging was still full of blue-jackets, fired another welcome from guns alternately on the larboard and starboard sides, the blue smoke slowly moving over the water and hiding the shore in a mist, into which the launch bearing the Prince disappeared; but presently thirty-one guns, fired from the battery, told that his Royal Highness had reached shore, and had been received by a people who had looked forward to his coming with eager longing, and whose whole talk for months past had been almost solely of Prince Albert Victor of Wales.

THE VOYAGE.

When it became known in England that his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor had decided on an Indian tour; that he would set sail on a certain date; and that the P. and O. Company's splendid steamship Oceana was the vessel he would sail by, the rush for accommodation by intending travellers to India was tremendous. Long before the day for sailing, every cabin, every berth, was secured, as may be imagined from the fact that including children and servants, two hundred and ninety-four passengers landed in Boubay on Saturday. It was at two o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, the 19th of October, that the Oceana weighed anchor at Gravesend. The voyage did not commence very pleasantly, mal de mer causing many to lie in their cabins. But the worst was to come. The Bay of Biscay proved a trial to many in the big ship, and small justice was done to the steward's splendid table. At Marseilles the passengers got some relief, for in order to have the vessel clean and tidy for the Prince, the Oceana spent some time coaling at that port, and those who wished were allowed some time on shore. Proceeding through the Mediterranean, the sea, though not particularly rough, was choppy, and prevented much in the shape of amusements being indulged in. The ship, however, reached Port Said up to time, and there the Royal Yacht Osborne, with their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, Prince Albert Victor, and Prince George of Wales on board, lay at anchor. It was early in the morning when Port Said was reached, but the town was discovered all en fête, and the ships were all brightly decorated with flags. From this point to Bombay the weather was all that could be desired, and the Prince had a most delightful voyage, escaping such sufferings as his fellow-passengers had experienced during the first half of the trip. But the Prince did not board the Oceana at Port Said. On the Oceana's arrival there, the Royal yacht weighed anchor and preceded the big vessel down the Canal, the Egyptian flagship manning her yards, giving a lusty cheer, and firing a parting salute as the yacht steamed off, which cheer was echoed back from both Osborne and Oceana. Being small and light compared with the Oceana the Royal yacht was soon out of sight, and was found riding at anchor again when Ismailia was reached. The passage along the Canal was very enjoyable, a gentle breeze tempering the heat and yet being insufficient to raise the sand which often proves so uncomfortable in steaming through the Suez Canal. Arrived at Ismailia, the Royal passenger came on board, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Prince George. The Prince of Wales had a tour round the ship along with his sons, inspected the rooms prepared for Prince Albert Victor, and expressed his greatest satisfaction at all that had been done for his son's comfort during the voyage. And truly his Royal Highness's rooms were models of comfort. No special preparations were made for his Royal Highness on board. He had an ordinary cabin, with just some carpets added, and had the use of the Captain's cabin, in which he spent most of his time. Indeed it would be difficult to say what could have been added to make the Royal passenger more comfortable seeing that all the cabins of the Oceana are built and fitted in a manner most likely to make anyone occupying them as comfortable as possible.

Having taken farewell of Prince Albert Victor, wished him bon voyage and a pleasant tour in India, Their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales and Prince George of Wales returned on board the Osborne, and the Oceana weighed anchor again, and as the two vessels parted company, a loud cheer rose in the air and many hats and handkerchiefs were waved in adieu. The hitherto dull ship now became lively. Entering the Red Sea, the water was found so smooth that she moved along as over a sheet of glass, while there was none of that sweltering heat so much dreaded in the Red Sea. The passengers woke up and joined in all kinds of games during the day, and held dancing parties and entertainments in the evening. In to these amusements the Prince heartily entered and he verysoon became immensely popular amongst his fellow-passengers. He had a special table provided for him in the saloon, at which he sat along with Captain P. S. Tomlin, R. N. R., Commander of the Oceana, General Sir Edward Bradford, K.C.S.I., who is in charge of the Prince's party, Lord and Lady Claude Hamilton, Captain Holford of the 1st Life Guards, and Captain Harvey of the 10th Hussars, his equerries-in-waiting, and such other guests as each evening he chose to sit down to table along with him. The run through the Red Sea, as already mentioned, was pleasantly cool, that is to say for the Red Sea, although from the middle of the third day out from Suez until Aden was reached, the ship had a strong head-wind against her, which, compared with the two previous days, lessened the twenty-four hours' run by about thirty miles. But it was not so rough as to interfere with the equilibrium of any of the passengers, the Prince greatly himself enjoying the voyage.

Aden was reached at eight o'clock on the night of the 4th November, as we have already learned from the telegram received some days ago, which statedthat we need not expect to see the Oceanatill two o'clock on Saturday afternoon. At Aden, however, little time was put off, much to the disappointment of the Aden residents. They expected his Royal Highness to land, and had prepared a fitting reception; but as it was necessary the vessel should speed on across the Indian Ocean with as little delay as possible, the people of Aden had to make the best of it. The Government launch Rose came alongside, with Brigadier-General A. G. F. Hogge, C.B., who paid his respects to his Royal Highness. Then there, came on board a deputation of Aden merchants headed by Mr. Dorabjee Dinshaw, who bore an address of welcome to his Royal Highness. The Prince accepted it, however, without hearing it read, there not being sufficient time to allow of the ceremony, and the deputation being presented to him, he briefly thanked them for their kindness. The telegram stated that it was nine o'clock when the Oceana left Aden, but it was really half-an-hour later ere the vessel steamed off. The weather now became even better than before, the sea being calmer than it was in the Red Sea, and the air much cooler. Games of various kinds were indulged in all day long; cabins were shunned except when the wearied voyagers retired late at night to rest, and the evenings were spent in music and dancing. The night before landing a splendid concert was arranged, with a most entertaining programme, to which Lady Morland, whose vocal talent we all in Bombay are well acquainted with, contributed, and met with a most enthusiastic reception. The artist for the Graphic sketched a most artistic design for the programme, the central figure of which was a lady holding a scroll bearing the bill of fare. Lady Morland, the picture of whom by the way was a very fair likeness, stood above wielding the conductor's baton, while below were his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor, General Bradford, Lord and Lady Claude Hamilton, Captain Tomlin and others of the more prominent personages on board, all represented as eagerly devouring the contents of the programme. About a hundred copies of this programme were thrown off, and sold for a shilling a piece in aid of a seamen's charity. The voyagers eagerly purchased them as mementoes of their pleasant trip to India with the Prince, and in a few minutes after publication every copy was purchased.

On the same evening, Lord Claude Hamilton proposed at the dinner table the health of the Captain in a brief but happy speech, which toast was heartily pledged by all in the saloon; and Captain Tomlin, who was enthusiastically received, replied in a neat speech. Altogether the voyage from Suez was a most pleasant one; his Royal Highness enjoyed the best of health, was in the best of spirits the whole way, and reached Bombay, as those who received him on the Apollo Bunder can testify, looking well and in excellent form for his tour through India.

The passage, as has already been stated, was a very rapid one from Suez, beating all records between Aden and Bombay. From Suez to Bombay was covered in twenty minutes less than eight days. Suez was left at 8-23 a.m. on the 1st of November, and 60 miles were covered between that hour and noon. The rest of the voyage was accomplished as follows:—

From noon of November 1 till noon of November 2, 383 miles.

From noon of November 2 till noon of November 3, 385 miles.

From noon of November 3 till noon of November 4, 354 miles against a strong head-wind.

From noon of November 4 till hour of arrival at Aden, 130 miles also against a strong head-wind.

From hour of departure from Aden till noon of November 5, 215 miles.

From noon of November 5 till noon of November 6, 376 miles.

From noon of November 6 till noon of November 7, 372 miles.

From noon of November 7 till noon of Novembor 8, 382 miles.

From noon of November 8 till dropping anchor in Bombay harbour, 312 miles.

SCENE AT THE APOLLO BUNDER.

The third and sudden alteration in the arrangements had its effect on the Prince's arrival from a spectacular point of view. The crowd, however, in the usual mysterious manner seemed to know all about it, and it was only those who had received cards of invitation to the Bunder that did not hear the news till the last moment. As on the occasion of the landing of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, Lord Dufferin, and Lord Lansdowne, a large white pendal or shamiana was erected at the extreme end of the Apollo Bunder, into which his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor entered directly he ascended the Bunder steps from the launch. There was a straight passage running down the whole length of the structure carpetted with coir matting, over which a roll of crimson cloth was spread. On either side of this passage square spaces of varying sizes were railed off for the accommodation of gentlemen who had been invited by cards issued by Khan Bahadur M. C. Murzban, who had the entire arrangements in connection with the decorations, &c., to superintend. These enclosure were in the following order:—First came that for the various heads of departments, the officers of Government and the general guests on the left-hand side. On the right, the first was reserved for the Foreign Consuls; then came others for the Native Chiefs, the members of the Municipal Corporation, the representatives of the Press; the last enclosure on this side being occupied by the guard-of-honour. The marquee on this occasion was rather larger than usual, and Mr. Murzban seeing that the central passage on former occasions was somewhat narrow, widened it considerably, with the result that there was an entire absence of crowding and inconvenience, than which nothing is more unseemly in the eyes of an Oriental, especially in any public function. Towards the centre of the pendal the roof was domed, and a small desk covered over with red cloth was placed, from which the President of the Corporation read an address to the Prince. On either side of the passage the poles that supported the roof were draped in maroon velvet, bound with rings of old gold-coloured lace. About half-way up these poles were fixed ornamental shields, bearing devices representing the Star of India, the Prince of Wales's feathers done in gold, etc. Further colour was added to the scene by the graceful draperies of maroon-coloured velvet bordered with old gold, which depended from the ceiling a few feet and bordered the passage along which the Prince walked up. The coat-of-arms of the Bombay Municipal Corporation, with its proud device, was hung at the back of the desk we have already referred to, and opposite this was the enclosure for the general public, which was furnished with chairs and sofas lined with bright yellow satin. All these striking colours were effectively toned down by the pots of crotons, with their olive green, dull red, and other exotic-coloured leaves, which were placed at intervals on either side of the passage. This also served admirably to draw away the attention from the crimson floor cloth, and was of inestimable service to the hot and dusty individuals who were assembled at the Apollo Bunder, and who had the morning sun shining on the water before them, with the reflected glare of the tin roofing of the Refreshment Rooms on their flank. Above the main entrance to the erection was placed the Royal coat-of-arms, surmounted by the Royal standard. From outside of the mandap could be seen the Venetian masts with flags flying that had been erected all round the Bunder, and lined the road on both sides up to the Sailors' Home. From an early hour small crowds of natives might have been seen hurrying to the Bunder head, having heard that his Royal Highness had landed, and when told that he had not, hurrying away again. By about ten o'clock, however, a pretty well filled house testified that the alterations had been finally changed and that his Royal Highness would land in the morning and not in the evening, but as the exact time was not known, a wild rush was made down to the Bunder. The rush, however, was confined mostly to the "general public," the seats for them, therefore, were soon filled, and this served to exhibit the emptiness of the other portions of the pavilion in a very marked degree. The enclosure for the officers of Government had a few occupants; that for foreign representatives had two; and the Corporation had only seven representatives at the Bunder! Although, as we have said, there was a meagre attendance of certain classes at the Bunder, yet the attendance of the general public was as large as it could be, and as it was much composed of the gentler sex, the scene was as bright and gay as it could possibly have been. Among those present were:—Mr. Grattan Geary, Khan Bahadoor M. C Murzban, Messrs. K. M. Kabrajee, Shroff, Goverdhundass Narotumdas, Framjee D. Dichea, E. C. K. Ollivant (Municipal Commissioner), W. H. Barrow, Major-General Budgen, Commanding the District, Col. Hughes, Captain Forbes, Captain Bode, R. S. O., Lieutenant Anderson, Col. Wise, Commissioner of Police; the Officers of H. M. S. Griphon, Ranger, and Garnet, the German and Spanish Consuls, Count Pfeil, of the Wissman Expedition, Mr. Ritchie, Mr. Spence, and the Hon. Mr. R. M. Sayani.

THE LANDING OF THE PRINCE.

As soon as the Oceana was signalled from the light-house on Saturday morning at ten minutes to eight o'clock, three guns were fired from the saluting battery at an interval of ten seconds each. H. R. H. the Commander-in-Chief arrived at the Bunder some time before his Excellency the Governor, and they went off to the Oceana. As soon as the Prince left the ship, accompanied by their staffs, the fact was made known by the excitement among the natives who had gathered at the Bunder, eagerly scanning every launch that passed, and by the booming of guns from various directions. On the Prince stepping ashore a fresh salute of 31 guns was fired, and as the cannon boomed and the natives shouted his Royal Highness ascended the steps, at the head of which he was met by his Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief, his Excellency the Governor, the Brigadier-General bay Volunteer Rifle Corps, unfortunately, were not assigned any place in the line of troops, as it was not thought that they would be able to turn out, but they did so,and in goodly numbers, too, having to take their position on the Esplanade near Sir Richard Temple's Statue. They were under the command of Colonel Bayley, and deserve credit for the readiness with which they turned out, and it is a great pity they were not allowed to take a more active part in the proceedings than they did.

Each regiment and corps was attended by its band, and as the Royal procession, escorted by the Bombay Light Horse, passed on its way to the station, a part of the National Anthem was played and the troops presented arms. After his Royal Highness's carriage had passed, each regiment re-formed ranks and marched to quarters.

When any event occurs that gives pleasure to the general public, the policemen's duties are generally very arduous, and the reception of the Prince on Saturday was no exception to the rule. From an early hour sepoys, constables, inspectors, and superintendents might have been seen coming from their several divisions to take charge of the posts assigned them on the route to be taken by his Royal Highness. That every member of the force did his duty in the usual efficient manner goes without saying, and will not be surprising to those who are acquainted with our local police force. Superintendent Page of the Water Police, with his assistant police officers, boarded the steamer immediately on arrival, and kept the route clear from the steamer to the Apollo Bunder. Superintendant Ingram of the Prince's and Victoria Docks took charge at the Apollo Bunder steps and made the necessary arrangements there. Superintendents Crummey and Khan Bahadoor Meer Abdool Ali, assisted by Rao Bahadoor Dahjee Gungajee, with other European police officers, attended at the reception mandwa, and the arrangements of carriages at the Bunder. Superintendent Brewin was stationed on the route near the Sailors' Home, and, with his assistants, maintained order from thence to the Flora Fountain. Superintendent Sweeney, mounted, took charge of the route from the Flora Fountain through Waudby Road. Superintendents McDermott and Grennan, with their Assistant European police officers, arranged order at the Victoria Terminus station.

THE JOURNEY TO POONA.

The special train consisted of fourteen carriages. H. E. the Governor's State carriage was assigned to H. R. H. Prince Albert Victor. H. E. the Governor and H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught had each a saloon. Colonel Firebrace, R. E. Consulting Engineer, was in the train, which was under the direction of Mr. Keily, who was accompanied by members of the engineering staff. Three European passenger guards were in charge of the train.

The hour fixed for the departure of the train was 3 p.m., in the expectation that in accordance with the amended programme, his Royal Highness would land at two o'clock. The landing having taken place at twelve, the special train got away at 2 p.m., and would have steamed out of the Victoria Station an hour earlier, but for the necessity of waiting for the arrival of the Prince's luggage. Mr. Barnett, the agent of the G. I. P. Railway, and Mr. Conder, the traffic superintendent, were on the platform and superintended the embarkation of the distinguished passengers and their numerous suits.

The train made rapid progress to Callian where it arrived at 3-3 p.m., exactly one hour and three minutes from Bombay. Part of the distance was covered at the rate of 40 miles an hour. There was a brief stoppage at Callian to take in water, and at Kurjat to take on an extra engine. The Reversing Station was reached at 4-40. The train rushed past the Khandalla Station to Lanowli, which was reached at 4-55. Fifteen minutes were allowed the Prince and the travellers to partake of refreshment, which was laid out at the station. Portion of the distance between Lanowli and Kirkee was accomplished at the rate of 54 miles per hour. The train was well coupled up, and the fourteen carriages moved like one, the permanent-way being in good condition. The Royal party might easily have been landed at Kirkee at a quarter to six, but as the time fixed was 6-30 the way was kept open and the train arrived at Kirkee Station at 6-25 p.m.

A guard of the Royal Fusiliers with band and colours was drawn up at the station, which was tastefully decorated with evergreens. The platform was crowded with ladies and gentlemen from Kirkee and Poona. The distinguished travellers alighted at Kirkee and proceeded to Guneshkind.

THE PULPIT REFERENCES.

The Rev. Chas. Gilder preaching last evening in the school-chapel of the Indo-British Institution (for Holy Trinity Church) on the sacrifices that devotion to God is always required to make, remarked that true loyalty is not contended with a literal compliance with what is prescribed, but is eager to display itself by spontaneous acts surpassing the mere letter. Let me borrow, he observed, an illustration of my subject from the event which is at present affording scope to the loyalty and devotion of her Majesty's subjects in this land—I mean the visit of his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor of Wales, the future Emperor of India and King of Great Britain and Ireland. Would the Queen or the young Prince, our visitor, be satisfied with his merely receiving the homage of the Municipal authorities of the Presidential cities which are to be visited by him, or the enforced attendance of the chief officials, civil, military, and ecclesiastical? These attentions are, so to speak, prescribed by law. On what very account, and in order to prove the loyalty and love of the people, much more will be done while the Royal visit lasts. The principal cities will be illuminated, and their chief thoroughfares made gay with banners and trophies, triumphal arches will be erected in many places, crowds will flock to welcome the Royal visitor wherever he goes, the poor will be feasted, and wherever he appears in public the loud huzzahs of the people will testify the sense of joy at his coming. Were he received with less hearty demonstrations of loyalty, the conduct of the people would be open to reproach as lacking in devotion to her Majesty the Queen-Empress, and respect to his Royal Highness. And this is precisely what Almighty God requires of each of us, namely, that we measure our devotion to him not by what the letter of the law demands, but by what we have the ability to do.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' TOUR OF 1875-76.

EXACTLY fourteen years ago, and almost at the very same hour as His Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor of Wales stepped ashore on Saturday, his royal father the Prince of Wales landed in Bombay at the Dockyard. Shortly after daybreak on the morning of the 8th of November 1875, the booming of three guns intimated to the watchful inhabitants of Bombay that the greatevent which had been the subject of conversation before hand with every Hindu, Mussulman, Parsee, and European, for months before had at last taken place, the Prince of Wales had realised the dream of his life and had arrived in India. But unlike Prince Albert who has reserved Bombay for his last series of tamashas before leaving India, the Prince of Wales commenced his tour with a round of receptions and gaieties in Bombay which kept the city lively for about twelve days.

THE PROCEEDINGS IN BOMBAY.

Never, since the 8th of November 1875 had there been on the occasion of either arrival or departure of Viceroy or Governor such a large and gay assemblage of princes and people; never had there been such excitement. The native princes and chiefs especially could not restrain their enthusiasm and their desire to welcome to India the heir-apparent to the British throne, and their future emperor. Many of them did not give him time to land, but put off to sea in common jolly boats and surrounded the Serapis. A Dockyard is not usually a very attractive looking place, but H. M's Dockyard on the occasion of His Royal Highness's arrival had been made to emerge from its pristine state of useful ugliness, and by a liberal though judicious use of the art of decoration, to assume an appearance of a very different and much more pleasing character. The dingy roof of the yard had been so altered in appearance that it looked like an elegant modern marquee. Below the shed, and between it and the water the square open space was covered with rich carpets. Thither the prince was conducted, and there the address of the Municipality was presented. The procession which followed the prince from the Dockyard to Parel was considered to have been one of the most gigantic ever seen in India. All along thereroute were large triumphal arches bearing words of welcome to the prince, and the wildest enthusiasm was displayed by the native population. It was estimated about half a million souls turned out to welcome the Prince of Wales. The illuminations, too, were on a grand scale, and on the night of the prince's arrival the streets presented a scene of gorgeous magnificence which they had never before displayed. Some portions of the town were like the fairy scenes which have formed the idea of many a rapturous poet. Walking or driving through the streets, one was tantalised by the impossibility of viewing more than a limited portion of the splendid scene at once, and naturally desired to soar, Asmodeus like, over the roofs of the city and have the whole glorious pageant in view. The most brilliant sight of the whole was to be seen from the front of the Frere Fountain from whence, with the fountain itself, glorious innumerable brightly coloured lamps, in the foreground a clear view could be obtained of the fronts of the various large public buildings in the vicinity which were all beautifully lighted and decorated. The fronts of the Post Office and the Public Works Office were almost one unbroken blaze of light of various colours, and their handsome towers were also brilliantly illuminated. The effect was dazzlingly beautiful. Another magnificent sight was that of the Town Hall, the colonnades of the walls, and even the steps of which were literally covered with lamps. Above the doorway a beautiful transparency was displayed of immense size, and depicting a splendidly executed Roman triumph scene. The whole Elphinstone Circle was a magnificent spectacle the splendid architecture of the immense buildings surrounding it being prominently displayed by the profuseness of the illuminations. The time the Prince remained in Bombay was occupied with levees and receiving visits from Native Princes, receiving and replying to addresses, so that his stay in Bombay included many arduous duties.

THE HARBOUR ILLUMINATED.

His formal duties over, the Prince of Wales had one most pleasant day's outing to Elephanta, before leaving Bombay, and on this occasion the harbour was the scene of grand illuminations the description of which is well worth repeating.

Bombay harbour has often been admired for its beautiful scenery, but it never before exhibited so magnificent an appearance as it presented on this occasion. Everybody in the town knew that the Prince had gone to Elephanta, and everyone in the harbour knew that the vessels in the harbour were to be illuminated; and as a natural consequence everybody who was able went either on board a ship or boat, or to some convenient point along the shore, to witness the spectacle. Many large and beautiful vessels had the lines of their hull and their entire rigging clearly marked by coloured lights, which twinkled like innumerable stars, and rivalled the lamps of heaven in brilliancy and beauty, while blue, green, and crimson magnesium lights were burned that illuminated the whole scene causing a very novel and beautiful effect. Shortly before ten o'clock at night the signal was given of the Prince's approach, and at once the patient waiting of the crowd was rewarded by a magnificent spectacle. Simultaneously, as if by the power of some magic wand, the whole of the ships of war were covered with brilliant magnesium lights which displayed their splendid lines and beautiful proportions with surprising distinctness. All the yards were manned with tars, and each Jack held in his hand a brilliant light, which he constantly replenished as it showed signs of fading, and each ship exhibiting lights of different colours, there was presented to the spectators a transformation scene that could not be surpassed. Then while the lights on all points of the ships were still burning, there were sent up from each beautiful boquets of rockets, whose splendid crimson, blue, green, and yellow stars lent to the sky a gorgeous magnificence. The guns were used to throw into the air firework bombs which burst with grand effect.

Only three days the 14th and 15th and 16th of November His Royal Highness spent in Poona. On the Saturday evening the night of his arrival a magnificent reception and dance was held, and on Sunday he attended St. Mary's church. Monday was occupied chiefly with a grand review of troops after which he returned to Bombay en route for Baroda.

THE PRINCE INCOGNITO.

Rather an amusing story is told of the Prince's movements on his return to Bombay:—

His Royal Highness wished the proceedings to be conducted without the undoubtedly enthusiastic and sincere but sometimes rather obtrusive and unwelcome demonstrations of the very demonstrative public; and on this occasion the arrangements were so well managed that even the curious and watchful people of Bombay were "sold," and the object of privacy was fully attained. It was currently reported throughout the town that H. R. H. intended to remain on board the Serapis until he landed in the evening to join the train that was to convey him to Baroda; and the public mind rested in peaceful security under the positive assurance that the Prince would be totally invisible throughout the day. To give credence to the report and to further maintain the impression, the Standard was kept flying on board the ship all day, as an intimation to those on shore that the Prince was on board. But it is proverbially true that appearances are deceptive; and in this case the tale of the Standard was utterly fictitious. In fact during the afternoon H. R. H. quietly left the ship, and was conveyed to the comparatively unfrequented Mazagon Bunder. He was here received sub rosa, so far as the affair could be managed, and immediately drove off in a closed carriage, drawn by four horses, with outriders, and escorted by a detachment of the 3rd Hussars. The object of H. R. H. was to pay certain ceremonial visits, and it was necessary he should proceed in state, or he would probably have chosen a less ostentatious mode of travelling. All the arrangements had been made with so much secrecy that no one in the town, except those who saw the carriage pass, was aware that the Prince was abroad, and the usual evening assemblage on the Apollo Bunder was considerably startled shortly after half-past six by the sudden appearance of His Royal Highness in their midst. The carriage drove straight down to the pier, and the Prince at once entered a plain steam launch,—not the Royal launch which carried him on former occasions—and returned on board the Serapis.

A CHEETAH HUNT.

On arriving at Baroda on the 20th November, a durbar was held at the Residency and then the Prince gave himself up to amusement. He witnessed an elephant fight and wrestling match at H. H the Gaekwar's arena, enjoyed some shooting and dined with the officers of the 9th regiment. On the second day following preparations were made for a cheetah hunt, which has been thus described.

Entering upon a large plain, portions of which were covered with high grass and a number of long hoops would be seen among the grass, although at first they were not distinguishable as horns. The native huntsmen, however, knew well that they were in the vicinity of a herd of black buck, and a leather cap was pulled over the eyes of the cheetah. The procession then separated into two parties one of which was led by the Prince, so that eventually a large number of deer, immense herds of which were moving about in disturbed confusion, were enclosed between the two divisions. Shortly before this manœuvre was executed, the hood was slipped off the head of one of the cheetahs, which sat up on its haunches for a moment looking around till it caught sight of a small herd at some distance off. Getting among them, it leaped upon the haunches of a doe, and pulled it violently to the ground, and fixed its teeth in its throat which it lay across like a bull dog. The shikarees then rushed in with their knives, cut the quivering doe's throat, filled a large horrible looking ladle with the blood and placing it under the cheetah's nose they tempted it off its prey, then slipped the hood over it and led it away to its cart again. The expert shikarries disembowelled the deer in a few seconds; it was then tied under the cart where one of the cheetahs was; and on over the fields the procession moved again. The Prince's party had not proceeded far when a couple of black buck were observed lighting furiously. A cheetah was slipped at the pair, who instantly stopped their fighting and galloped furiously away. The cheetah marked down one of them, and, moving with incredible swiftness soon reached it, leaped upon its haunches, and pulled it, down. The hunting went on from eight o'clock in the morning till past ten, by which time the sun was becoming powerful. Each party bagged four deer, and then returned across the rough country to the rendezvous where carriages were again entered."

THE RECEPTION AT BARODA.

Driving through the city the Prince's reception was everywhere enthusiastic.

The crowds that lined the roads, the sea of heads that was visible on the verandahs and out of the windows of every house, showed that all were anxious to do him honour as he passed through to accept of the hospitality of the Ruler of Baroda. The city was a blaze of lights; the numerous arches of welcome were lighted brilliantly and gave the appearance of being made of red hot fluid. One mosque tower especially at the entrance of the City, lying, as it does, in among a clump of large dark trees, was so illuminated that it looked like a mass of white hot metal, round which at intervals streams of a bright fiery fluid of a deeper shade were being poured, and kept in continual sparkling motion. The contrast between this bright object and the sombre background of trees was especially striking. The palace and grounds were beautifully illuminated; and description would fail to convey an adequate idea of the coup d'oeil that presented itself, as one looked down on the whole scene from the balconies of the palace itself. On Monday the Prince and party spent a day at Mahmedabad shooting. One hundred and twenty-eight brace of quail were brought home, twenty-two brace of which fell to the Prince's gun. In the course of the afternoon the party returned, and left shortly after for Dubkar where they were to enjoy some pig-sticking.

A DAY'S PIG-STICKING.

The special correspondent of the Bombay Gazette thus described the day he spent with the Prince's pig-sticking party:—

After breakfast we again took up our position, and being slightly refreshed, we renewed our hopes, I don't know how exactly, but we did, all of us, and we went on beating and hoping for a considerable time without any return. At last we began to give up hoping, and went into a despairing business, a sort of joint stock concern, and this paid better, for we had not despaired much more than half an hour, when our eyes fell on a horseman coming at speed from the direction of the hubbub of the beaters, and some recognised him as our Shikari-in-Chief, Major Westmacott. He was a little excited and slightly winded when he reached us, but he made us understand that there was a pig somewhere, and as far as I could make out he was in a "jow" whatever that may be. It was now a case of follow-my-leader, and we all proceeded to follow Major Westmacott. After going this fine time, we came to a place where there were several frantic sepoys in full dress with black helmets, red and white plumes, full dress saddle cloth, and drawn swords, and amongst them Major Sitwhope, whom, by the way, we left doing Royal Salute at, H. R. H's bungalow front door in full dress. He was no longer in that costume, but wore long boots over a pair of brick dust coloured breeches with a jacket to match. All the party seemed slightly mad with excitement, and no wonder, for they were keeping in a pig, and waiting for our arrival to make him "get out." Now the fun began. After all kinds of dodges and dodging at last piggy broke cover and "skirted" at a racing pace. The Prince of Wales was quickly on his track. Mounted as he was on a splendid English cob, he did not give either piggy or his co-sparties much chance. The pig who had never left the support of his cover, after giving a brisk, but short run, dived into "coal grot" again, and then made himself as disagreeable as he knew how, snorting defiance at every one who approached to turn him out. A slight scratch with a sword from one of the mounted full dress troops, brought him out and "tally ho forward" was again the cry. A voice in front said "I've speared him," and there was a general shout of "first spear," and in another minute or two, after a little up and down hunting, the same voice said "That's killed him; he's dead." Several willing hands drew him out, and the artist took a sketch of the group, the centre of attraction being "Ye defunct pig." It was now decided that it was time to return and the party galloped back to the camp. After a slight refreshment carriages and horses were ordered round, and the whole party returned, as it came, to Baroda. I forgot to mention that both the first and second voices mentioned above belonged to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales." A dinner at the Residency was afterwards given, at which the Deputations from Broach, Surat, and Ahmedabad were present; the band of the 9th Regiment was in attendance. At half-past nine the Prince left Baroda. The departure, which was from the old station, was private, no one being allowed on the platform but few of the "heads."

AMONG THE GOANESE.

On the 27th of November His Royal Highness arrived at Goa.

Goa, wrote our correspondent, was thrown into a furore. The little population was dressed in its best, and a general holiday was proclaimed. All the horse conveyances, of which there are about a dozen in Goa, were engaged beforehand, so was every mancheel, a peculiar apparatus like a low doolie in which people are carried along by natives who rest the poles of the machine upon their heads. The windows of the houses in the square, opposite the pier, were filled with Portuguese and Goanese ladies, dressed in exceedingly gay costumes. Near the palace the troops of the Viceroy were drawn up, and a musical band paraded the main street. At nine o'clock the pretty clean looking May Frere steamed up the harbour and anchored off the Palace. The Viceroy then went off to meet His Royal Highness and conducted him to the State barge, which had the Portuguese flag flying at the stern. The Prince, accompanied by all his staff, entered the barge, and was pulled to the pier, where all the officials of Goa were assembled to receive him. The troops presented arms, and the band played "God save the Queen," and a little battery near the palace fired a royal salute. When the Prince reached the end of the jetty, by which time he had shaken hands with most of the officials, the Portuguese ladies waved their handkerchiefs, and the crowd attempted to raise a cheer. His Royal Highness proceeded to inspect the guard of honour, after which, accompanied by the Viceroy, he entered the palace, and was conducted to the grand reception hall, through corridors filled with portraits and huge brass-bound chests containing archives. After having a short interview with the Viceroy, the Prince returned to the jetty. The houses built into the picturesque palm-crowned hill in front of the palace, were crowded with people, and the Secretariat windows immediately adjoining the palace framed thousands of dusky faces. The Prince acknowledged the enthusiasm of the people, and entered the steam-launch of the Serapis, which proceeded rapidly up the estuary to Old Goa. After spending an hour or two at the See, the ruined palace of the inquisition, and the edifice of Bom Jesus, where he was deeply interested in the tomb of St. Xavier and its surrounding relics. The Prince proceeded to New Goa, and entertained the Viceroy to luncheon on board the May Frere.

AT COLOMBO AND MADRAS.

We next find the Prince at Colombo, where he Knighted the Governor for high services to the Queen, and had a fairly successful raid against elephants, and then he proceeded to Madras, where he attended the races at Guindy. But the most important event the Prince took part in was the laying of the foundation stone of the new harbour works, which cost sixty lakhs of rupees.

The stone was a massive block of grey granite cut in such a way as to leave a small square block on the top. On this top piece the Prince of Wales's feathers were carved in high relief, and on the lower block there was the following inscription, cut deeply in the stone:—"This stone was laid by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales on the 15th December 1875, as a memorial of the commencement of the Madras Harbour Works." Between this place, where the triangle stood and the sea, a dense mass of human beings was packed; and beyond them to the left extended a skeleton pier, surmounted by waggons, cranes, and numerous gay flags, and to the right, the Serapis and her consreres whose gay bunting contrasted with the blue of the sea around. The buildings along the Beach Road were decorated with flags; their verandahs and windows were filled with people, and the Esplanade on the large flat roof many thousands of glancing eyes were turned towards the direction whence the Prince was expected. The route from Government House to the site of the projected breakwater was lined by multitudes of men and women, who were chiefly remarkable for their dark skins and scanty good looks; and doubtless the authorities who knew the strength of a Madras crowd, and the sepoy-like manner it can go out of bounds in Town, did wisely in railing of the road with heavy iron bars fixed into stout pieces of upright timber. After several false alarms caused by the appearance of Rajas in the distance, accompanied by their loadly-dressed attendants, the Prince of Wales at last arrived, preceded by the Governor's Body Guard. The guard-of-honour selected from the splendid men of the 53th Regiment saluted the band played "God save the Queen," the assemblage in the galleries doffed hats and cheered; the Prince smiled and bowed repeatedly, and then alighted opposite the triangle. Here he was met by the Duke of Buckingham, Sir Frederick Haines, the members of Council, and a number of other gentlemen. After having the scope and design of the Harbour Works explained to him, he, accompanied by the Duke of Buckingham, the Duke of Sutherland and Sir Bartle Frere, went into the enclosure,

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

THE CASE FOR THE PROSECUTION.

[illegible] endless delays, owing to the difficulty of [illegible] a jury, the trial of the men Burke, Coughlin [illegible], and Kunze on the charge of [illegible] the murder of Dr. Cronin, was commenced in the County Criminal Court [illegible] on the 24th ult. before Judge McConnell at the Criminal Courts. The keen interest taken in [illegible] the case by the crowded state of the public [illegible]. Attorney Longenecker opened the case [illegible] prosecution. In referring to the meaning of [illegible] "reasonable doubt," he declared that [illegible] hearing the evidence the jury were satisfied [illegible] truth of the charge, and that the defendants [illegible] guilty, it would not be right of them to go [illegible] home for doubts and hunting around [illegible] excuse. Mr. Forrest, for the defence, [illegible] said that it was out of place to endeavour to develop [illegible] reasonable doubt at the opening of the trial, and [illegible] his question should be deferred until the close. [illegible] Court, however, overruled Mr. Forrest's exception, and Mr. Longenecker, resuming, gave a definition of what constituted murder and of the bearings [illegible] of circumstantial evidence. He next described the circumstances under which Dr. Cronin [illegible] missed, and informed the Court that the State [illegible] to prove that it was murder and the outcome of a conspiracy. The evidence to be submitted [illegible] jury would show that all the conspirators were [illegible] for murder, and they would be punished first for [illegible] and then for murder. This, he said, [illegible] position taken up by the prosecution.

[illegible] pointing out that the conspirators after the [illegible] murder, went to create the impression that Dr. [illegible] was still alive. The learned counsel sketched [illegible] story of the conspiracy, which he said was [illegible] of patriotic Irishmen, of Irishmen who [illegible] for political effect, and of Irishmen who joined [illegible] money. Its object was to free Ireland by forces of [illegible] and the early witnesses and the members made [illegible] of the Triangle superior to the laws [illegible] nation. He, further, objected to Mr. Longenecker's statements as inadmissible before proofs had [illegible] adduced, and Judge McConnell warned the State's [illegible] that they must confine themselves to what they [illegible] prove. Mr. Longenecker replied that he would prove [illegible] he said, and resumed the full responsibility of [illegible] statements. He said that Sullivan, [illegible] and Beggs [illegible] the dynamite policy and [illegible] a change [illegible] Alexander [illegible] it unlawful [illegible] members [illegible] compromise [illegible] order [illegible] Cronin [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] Beggs [illegible] Cronin [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] Beggs [illegible] Cronin [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] Beggs
